

Alvis 12/50 special

Jug was an Alvis special. If you remember the dog, waiting patiently for its master in the seat of an old sportscar in the film of the Battle of Britain, you will know the car - or at least a car that looks like it. I saw it parked in the drive of a Manchester inner suburb, knocked on the house door and so began another lifelong friendship. He moved to other Alvises, I to other makes. Jug had a lightweight body, built directly over the chassis rails, so it was very narrow, and the driver and passenger had sit staggered.

© Roderick Ramage 6.1.2004