

BMW 1 Series

My wife's specification was white, not too big, automatic, about £10k; and Google's answer was a BMW 118 from a street side dealer near Didsbury. I drove there in the Rover and back in the BMW. It's a useless little car if you are over about 5'9". In winter clothing I squeeze between the B-pillar and the steering wheel and duck my head to enter. If, on the tight uphill left-hander near home, I really try, I can detect and enjoy that it is RWD, but it is obvious why most owners neither know or care. There is no reversing radar.

© Roderick Ramage 21.v.2016