

Citroën Light 15 (11CV)

I do not remember the two Citroëns my father had during the war, one to drive and the other for spares. He said that once, after working on the gearbox, he had one forward and three reverse gears. Later I used to visit friends of my parents, who had a Light 15, from which I learnt about legroom in the back. I would look through rear windows to gauge the gap between the rear seat and the back of the front seat. In the Citroën the gap looked small but the rear seat was so deep that the legroom was plentiful.

© Roderick Ramage c. 2003