

Humber Hawk

Amongst my sister's and my childhood friends were a farmer's son and daughter. The farmer always ran big Humbers and took us on outings in them. Hawks. Big bodies but only four cylinders and about 2.3 litres. Early Hawks were not good for much over 70 and even the new generation model would only just beat 80. Some people like a car because it is big and comfortable, but are not bothered about the engine and racing round the place. Journalists' and manufacturers' fetish for 0-60 figures have almost killed of this formula, unless you count the smaller engined Skoda Superb.

© Roderick Ramage 6.i.2004