

Volkswagen Bora

I apologise for mentioning this, one and for all, but cannot resist the obvious pun on its name. I drove one as a hire car for over a week in Austria with a family of four and all our luggage. For some of us a tooth brush is the only essential, but not so for others. Externally the Bora loses the Golf's visual impact and become just another three box medium sized family saloon. Inside it is pure Golf but with room for all a teenage girl's and her mother's luggage. It was all gain, at least as a hire car.
