

All's well that ends well

To get your man: be adopted by Countess Rossillion, who approves your love for her son Bertram; attend court and cure the King with your late father's secret prescription; marry the reluctant Bertram, when the King offers any bachelor at court; when Bertram goes to war in Tuscany forbidding you from calling him husband until you obtain his ring and bear his child; follow him; lodge with a widow whose daughter, Diana, Bertram covets; arrange a bed swap to obtain Bertram's ring and the seed of his child; and return to court where Bertram repents and avows his love for you.
