

motorists and bicyclists

My ex used to get mad at bicyclists weaving in and out of the traffic and getting in the way, but when I bought her a massive Dutch swan necked bicycle, she stormed in after a ride to the shops saying "I want a bigger bell. These motorists! They don't think." They do, well some of them. My Uncle, who told me to pass my driving test and then he would teach me how to drive, said that, if you have a choice between running over a pedestrian or a bicyclist, chose the pedestrian, because the bicycle will scratch your paint.

© Roderick Ramage 101 words, 8.vi.2007